HART DAMAGE SUIT IS GIVEN to JURY

The damage suit of Juan Hart against the Southern Pacific Railway company was given to a jury in the 34th district court Monday. The plain-tiff asks judgment for $5000, claiming his land near the smelter was damaged by an overflow in July, 1908, owing to the alleged improper grading of the railway rightofway.

Testimony was heard in the 41st district court Monday in the case of J. W. Stevens vs. Catarino Pedrogon and others. The title to a 17 acre tract of land near Ysleta is involved.

Before Judge Walthall. Suit asking divorce has been filed in the 41st district court by Dauphine Weaver against Herbert Weaver. A garnishment suit has been filed in the same court by P. H. Bailey against Horace B. Stevens.

San Antonio Express Belabors Them for Their Anti-Americanism.

The San Antonio Express, probably the widest read American paper in Mexico outside of the English papers published in that capital, declares the riots in Mexico are due to Mexican jealousy of Americans and their successes in Mexico. The Express calls upon them to equal the Americans in business, science and mechanics rathe than stone Americans for their superfor intelligence. Says the Express:

"As the news comes from the City of Mexico about the anti-American riots there, it becomes increasingly apparent that the lynching of a Mexican in Rock Springs was merely an incident seized upon by malcontents al-ready overzealous in their desire to bring about some kind of disorder. El imparcial, a Mexican newspaper, was the object of one of the attacks made by the mob. Certainly, El Imparcial had nothing to do with the lynching of a Mexican in Rook Springs. But it is a government organ.
"Americans have difficulty in realiztacks upon American interests in Mexico. A few of the newspapers are apparently in no other business. They misinformation and then hurling vi triolic denunciation based upon state-ments which are so obviously incorrect faces without further investigation being necessary.

ESCAJEDA MAY BE THE AUDITOR

Some Objection Is Raised, However-Edwards's

Joe Escajeda will probably get the job of county auditor, paying $2400 per year, created automatically in El Paso county under a law which provides for such an district and county judges.

The census returns which show El Paso to have a population of 39,279, create the office of county auditor, the law reading that any county having a population of over 40,000 or a city in the ounty of over 25,000 shall have a county

Because of the vote last Tuesday falling below 3000, the sheriff's fees will be increased. So will those of other county officers. The vote polled at a presidential elec-tion, rather than a state election, is taken as a basis on which to place the county clerk on a fee basis, according to county officials. As the vote two years ago was over 3000, Pitman's fees are Stanley Good, at present a city detec Ed. Mebus, formerly on the detective department, a nephew of mayor C. E. Kelly, may get one of the deputyships.

Meetings are being held by the ring leaders. One was held Monday in the office of mayor Kelly, with J. R. Harper, Geo. Huffman, Adrian Pool and mayor Kelly closeted for nearly an It is understood that they discussed the office of county auditor, Americans are objecting to the office ing to a Mexican. Ike Alderete and Do-mingo Montoya have both been elected to office, and now it is proposed to take care of Joe Escajeda, it is said. Escajeda was proffered the chief deputyship under sheriff-elect Peyton J. pays only $1500 per year.

Thomas A. Thurston, a partner of Clarence Longnecker, who was city auditor during the first Sweeney administration, is said to be seeking the auditorship. Commissioners Meet. Commissioners' court convened Monlay morning to canvass the vote cast at the state and county election on Nov. 8.

No action has as yet been taken relative to the tie vote for constable at Sierra Blanca between A. B. Duncan, the present incumbent, and J. B. Cavender. Each received 15 votes. The petition of El Paso county lawyers for a law library at the courthouse will be presented at the meeting of the
